Global Cooperation under Covid-19

Monday, 5th October 2020 (17:30-19:00, CEST)

Co-organizer: University of Gothenburg, School of Global Studies

Online-Event via Zoom | Link provided after registration

Note: This event is part of the International Conference 'Urgency' and 'Responsibility' in Global Cooperation - Covid-19 and Beyond. If you wish to take part in the conference, please consult <https://www.gcr21.org>

The current global pandemic has brought the 'urgency' and 'responsibility' for global cooperation into particularly sharp focus. This interdisciplinary roundtable of global health experts considers what kinds of global cooperation have and have not happened in respect of Covid-19, in terms of prevention, detection, counteraction, recovery and reconstruction. Thereby they will try to assess, whether this experience holds lessons for future pandemics - or even global cooperation in general?
