The growth and development of any scholar is influenced by many factors and the different trajectories of life. A combination of intentionality and design happily coexists with a certain element of serendipity that weaves a rich tapestry in my development as an individual and academic. The talk will focus on my experience as a scholar and how my professional growth has been influenced by many things including the interface between personal and professional markers located in the context of India where religion and other identity markers and mobility are negotiated between what is given by the constitution on the one hand and the socially constructed spaces. Thus navigating between the local and global settings, I have been privileged to have found my own voice. Ummu S. Bava

Discussant Prof. Dr Claudia Derichs, Chair of Comparative Politics and International Development Studies, Philipps-Universität Marburg

Moderator Prof. Dr Bettina Burger-Menzel, Department of Business and Management, Brandenburg University of Applied Sciences

The Käte Hamburger Kolleg / Centre for Global Cooperation Research seeks to contribute towards a better understanding of the possibilities and limits of transboundary cooperation. By building a learning community, researchers from different disciplines and world regions develop an innovative framework for contemporary cooperation research that enables the exploration of new options for global public policy. We aim to become a crucial hub for this emerging branch of research. We aim to understand the role of transboundary cooperation as an essential part of public policy addressing global challenges.
